

The Ahrntal valley welcomes the Slalom Queens

It's all set - for two exciting women's European Cup slaloms at Skiworld Ahrntal on the 19th and the 20th December 2025. The Queens of Goasleitm will once again provide spectacular racing, not only among the spectators in the finish area, but also in front of the screens in the live stream.

The FIS snow inspection gave the green light for the event. The final starting list is now complete with skiers from a total of 27 nations. In terms of numbers, the Italian women are the best represented, followed by Switzerland, France, USA, Austria and Sweden.

Among them are top international skiers such as last year's Swedish winner Estelle Alphand, Nicole Good from Switzerland and Martina Dubovska from the Czech Republic. The Italian team will compete for the crown with Giorgia Colomb, Emilia Mondinelli, Laura Steinmair and many others, diving fearlessly into the notorious steep slope of the Goasleitm directly from the start house.

The first run starts at 10 am and the second run can be seen from 1 pm. Following the two races, the successful athletes will be celebrated once again at the after-race party. The crowning of the Queens of Goasleitm can also be followed in the live stream on the website www.queensofgoasleitm.com.
